

Rogerwilco Terms & Conditions

We've published this terms and conditions document on our website to provide prospective clients with some insights to the agreement we'll want to sign with them should we end up working together. It is a fairly generic document - we'll inevitably adapt it to reflect the specific nature of the work you ask us to do - hence the references to the various appendices.

1. INTRODUCTION

1.1 The Client commissioned Rogerwilco to supply digital marketing services or web development services ("services"); and,

1.2 The Parties wish to record their agreement as set out hereunder to regulate their on-going relationship in respect of the provision of the services, [this will be presented to you in Annexure C once you've received a formal proposal from us].

1.3 Furthermore, the provision of the services necessitates the Client sharing marketing and business strategy and tactics with Rogerwilco and Rogerwilco sharing its technical know-how and business processes with the Client, which, for each party, are proprietary, secret and confidential.

1.4 The parties wish to also record their agreement to protect the information which they receive from the other in the course of their relationship, and commit to protect the information. Confidential information must remain confidential until either it has become public in some other way, or either party has consented to such information being made public.

3.3 Should any additional resources or services be required, or should the time allocated in Annexure C be exceeded, then the additional costs of the resources, services or time will be for the account of the Client.

3.4 Rogerwilco's ability to provide the Services is dependent on the full and timely co-operation of the Client and the accuracy and completeness of any information and data the Client provides to Rogerwilco. In such a case, the Client will be provided with a written quotation at the rates set out in Annexure C, including a cost estimate for the additional work to be performed by Rogerwilco .
